PASTOR'S NOTES

The Solemnity of Sts. Peter and Paul

You're invited to pray for our Church and Country.

On Tuesday, June 29th, we will celebrate the Solemnity of Sts. Peter and Paul. During this Mass it is appropriate for us to ask for the intercession of these two holy Saints, praying for our country as we approach Independence Day and also our beloved Church, that we may serve as a remedy and balm for the many wounds and divisions that we are currently experiencing in our country. As our Pledge of Allegiance bids us, may we remain "one nation under God."

This feast is ancient and significant. There is historical evidence that is has been celebrated since the 3rd Century, if not earlier. In some parts of the world, it is still a Holy Day of Obligation.

St. Peter is the rock upon which Jesus built his Church. He represents the apostolic authority and the truth of the gospel that must be safeguarded by the successors of St. Peter. St. Paul represents the Church's missionary zeal. He reminds us that the Good News is a message that must be preached by all of us.

To accomplish the herculean task of healing our culture, we much work together. As St. Paul wrote in his letter to the Corinthians, "I appeal to you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that all of you agree and that there be no dissensions among you, but that you be united in the same mind and same judgement."

And we must also pray fervently as we navigate our fractured world. "Pray without ceasing," St. Paul told the Thessalonians, "In all circumstances give thanks, for this is the will of God for you in Christ Jesus." (1 Thessalonians 5:17–18)

Pope Benedict XVI once said in his homily on this day that in their martyrdoms, Sts. Peter and Paul became brothers. After meeting only twice, St. Peter died first being crucified upside down. St. Paul, a Roman Citizen, was allowed a less painful and swift death by being beheaded. In the 4th Century, St. Augustine pleaded, "Let us embrace what they believed, their life, their labors, their sufferings, their preaching, and their confession of faith."

In recent years, the Church has suggested that we pray particularly for the preservation of religious freedom leading up the our celebration of Independence Day. This is partly because of the many martyrs in the summer calendar, many of whom were persecuted by secular leaders. This is another reason why we gather to offer prayers to Sts. Peter and Paul on this Tuesday!

Let me close with a prayer from the Roman Missal to Sts. Peter and Paul.
Grant, we pray, O Lord our God,
that we may be sustained by the intercession of the blessed Apostles Peter and Paul,
that, as through them you gave your Church
the foundations of her heavenly office,
so through them you may help her to eternal salvation.
Through our Lord Jesus Christ, your Son, who lives and reigns with you in the unity of the Holy Spirit,
one God, for ever and ever. Amen.

God Bless,

Fr. Don Kline

Reflecting Heaven (Part X)

Notes on the St. Bernadette Sanctuary Renovation

by Fr. Don Kline, V.F.

Part 10: The Ambo and the Altar of Sacrifice

Over the past nine weeks, we've been exploring the various aspects of our current renovation project. Ultimately, the purpose of this project is to facilitate a closer relationship for each of us with Jesus Christ and His Church. Perhaps nowhere in the church is that relationship with Christ more clearly expressed than in the Altar of Sacrifice.

Last week we explored the progression of the pilgrimage from Baptism in the font up the center aisle to the Holy of holies, the Sanctuary itself. You will recall that the Sanctuary is the "nerve center" of the church, the focal point at which heaven and earth meet at each and every Mass.

There are only three furnishings that are present in every Roman Catholic Sanctuary in the world: the altar, the ambo (from which the word of God is proclaimed), and the presider's chair. Many other furnishings might be present, but only those three are required in the Sanctuary by liturgical law. In this article we'll examine the altar and the ambo.

Much can be learned about the altar from a study of the words and actions of the liturgy itself. One of the most beautiful and symbolically rich liturgies of the Church is the Order of the Dedication of a Church, celebrated when a church building is first used for Mass. The following passage is from the Liturgical Institute in Mundelein, Illinois, one of the world's most solid centers of liturgical study.

For an excellent four-minute video on the altar, see Episode 26 at http://www.elementsofthecatholicmass.com/episodes

"The altar is the central feature of every Catholic church. It is the most significant element in the church building. One can argue that the altar is even more significant than the tabernacle, since without altar, there is no reserved Blessed Sacrament.

The altar is the focal point of every liturgical celebration. The Church teaches us that Christ himself is the Victim; Christ is the Priest; Christ is the Altar of Sacrifice.

The Order of the Dedication of a Church can teach us much about the meaning of the altar. Until the altar is consecrated, it is treated as an inanimate object. At the beginning of this ceremony, the altar is ignored: there is no bow, no kiss, not even lighted candles. Before its consecration the altar is merely an object, a hunk of stone, a chunk of wood.

When it is put into service for the worship of God, the altar is first sprinkled with holy water. This constitutes a kind of washing or baptism; it is then anointed with Sacred Chrism [the oil used in Baptism, Confirmation and Ordination]. The altar is honored with incense, and it is dressed with a white cloth, analogous to the garment of the newly baptized. Candles are brought and, in the celebration of the Eucharist, the altar receives the Body of Christ. That altar, like the Christian at Baptism, is made another Christ. The altar is the permanent symbol of the presence of Christ for the Christian community."

Note that the altar is a primary symbol of Christ himself in the Liturgy. That is why, whenever someone crosses in front of the altar during Mass, the Church calls for a profound bow in reverence to the altar. It is significant that, outside Mass, when the Blessed Sacrament is present in the tabernacle, we genuflect to Christ's Real Presence in the tabernacle. But during Mass, the only genuflections to the tabernacle are when the priest is opening and closing it and at the very beginning and end of Mass. All other reverences by priest and people are made to the altar itself as a symbol of Christ. Usually that is a bow; the only genuflection is immediately after the consecration, when the Real Presence is actually there on the altar.

In general, then, we genuflect to the Real Presence of Christ; we bow to the symbol of Christ.

In the present renovation, our altar will not be a new altar. The "mensa," or top surface, is the exact same as we had before. Therefore, the altar will not need to be re-anointed and rededicated.

The beautiful statues on near each corner of the altar are the patron of our school, St. John XXIII and the patroness of our parish, St. Bernadette. The center of the base of the altar is the familiar depiction of the Last Supper.

The Lectern vs. Pulpit vs. Ambo

The General Instruction of the Roman Missal (GIRM) makes a striking claim: "[W]hen the Sacred Scriptures are read in the Church, God himself speaks to his people, and Christ, present in his word, proclaims the Gospel" (no. 29).

In a very well written article entitled: The Ambo: Launch Platform for the Word by Denis R. Mcnamara, he states that "the ambo is more than a reading desk that conveniently holds liturgical books. It signifies and magnifies the importance of the "living and effective" word of God proclaimed in the liturgy, through which Christ "sanctifies humanity and offers the Father perfect worship."

According to the mind of the Church, the ambo extends in the visual realm the mission of the proclamation of the sacred scripture which "expresses the Father's love that never fails in its effectiveness toward us" (Lectionary for Mass, 4).

In its Greek original, the word ambon (ἄμβων) simply means a rim or raised area. A raised platform called a migdal, frequently translated as "pulpit" in scripture, is mentioned in the Book of Nehemiah (8:4), and Solomon is recorded as having constructed a bronze platform upon which he stood at the consecration of the Temple (2 Chron 13).

Over time, though, the term acquired its current meaning as a reading desk used in the liturgical setting. Perhaps the earliest written record of the ambo in ecclesiastical history comes from Canon 15 of the Council of Laodicea (c. 363), which spoke of those who sing from the ambo. Similarly, the fourth-century Church historian Socrates of Constantinople speaks of St. John Chrysostom mounting an ambo to preach.

The use of the ambo grew widespread through next eight centuries before eventually declining. The 1913 Catholic Encyclopedia included an entry on the ambo by name and summed up the arc of the use of the ambo succinctly: "[T]hey were first introduced into churches during the fourth century, were in universal use by the ninth, reaching their full development and artistic beauty in the twelfth, and then gradually fell out of use."

The 1967 New Catholic Encyclopedia noted that the term "pulpit" was gradually being replaced by the term "ambo" because the new Order of Mass of Vatican II directed that "the Service of the Word be not at the altar" but at the ambo. Here lies the essential distinction considered so important in the liturgical reform of the twentieth century. Pulpits, properly speaking, were primarily used for preaching, and developed in the late Middle Ages as a place separate from the proclamation of scripture.

In summary, the terminology for the ambo is sometimes used loosely and interchangeably today.

Below is a handy glossary for understanding the meaning of each word.

Lectern: In the Western Church, a relatively small and unadorned stand or desk for cantors or announcements outside of the liturgical proclamation of scripture.

Pulpit: Properly speaking, a raised platform used for preaching rather than the proclamation of scripture. Today, many older pulpits are used for the Liturgy of the Word and are therefore used as ambos.

Ambo: In the Latin Church, a fixed, raised and noble place for the liturgical proclamation of scripture and further commentary in a homily.

The Woman Who Took Heart in Jesus

Do you approach the Lord Jesus with expectant faith or with skeptical doubt? People in desperate or helpless circumstances were not disappointed when they sought Jesus out. What drew them to Jesus? Was it hope for a miracle or a word of comfort in their affliction? What did the elderly woman who had suffered miserably for twelve years expect Jesus to do for her? And what did a grieving father expect Jesus to do for his beloved daughter who was at the point of death? Jesus gave hope where there seemed to be no human cause for it because his hope was directed to God. He spoke words of hope to the woman (Take heart, daughter!) to ignite the spark of faith in her (your faith has made you well!).

Ephrem the Syrian (306-373 AD), an early church Scripture scholar and author of hymns and commentaries, reflected on the miracle of the woman who was healed of her flow of blood:

> "Glory to you, hidden Son of God, because your healing power is proclaimed through the hidden suffering of the afflicted woman. Through this woman whom they could see, the witnesses were enabled to behold the divinity that cannot be seen. Through the Son's own healing power his divinity became known. Through the afflicted women's being healed her faith was made manifest. She caused him to be proclaimed, and indeed was honored with him. For truth was being proclaimed together with its heralds. If she was a witness to his divinity, he in turn was a witness to her faith... He saw through to her hidden faith, and gave her a visible healing."

Jesus also gave supernatural hope to a father who had just lost a beloved child. It took considerable courage and risk for the ruler of a synagogue to openly go to Jesus and to invite the scorn of his neighbors and kin. Even the hired mourners laughed scornfully at Jesus. Their grief was devoid of any hope. Nonetheless, Jesus took the girl by the hand and delivered her from the grasp of death. Peter Chrysologus (400-450 AD), an early church father who was renowned for his preaching at Ravena, comments on this miracle:

> "This man was a ruler of the synagogue, and versed in the law. He had surely read that while God created all other things by his word, man had been created by the hand of God. He trusted therefore in God that his daughter would be recreated, and restored to life by that same hand which, he knew, had created her... He [Jesus] who laid hands on her to form her from nothing, once more lays hands upon her to reform her from what had perished."

In both instances, we see Jesus' personal concern for the needs of others and his readiness to heal and restore life. In Jesus, we see the infinite love of God extending to each and every individual as he gives freely and wholly of himself to each person he meets. Do you approach the Lord with confident expectation that he will hear your request and act?

Lord Jesus, you love each of us individually with a unique and personal love. Touch my life with your saving power, heal and restore me to fullness of life. Help me to give wholly of myself in loving service to others.

In today's Gospel we see how in faith, Jarius asked Jesus to heal his daughter and how Jesus then answered his prayer. In prayer we also come to know that we are loved by God, and in that trust we ask for healing for ourselves, our loved ones and all those who are suffering.

This week, please join with the Society of St. Vincent de Paul in praying for the healing of all those who are ill and especially those who have no one to pray for them.
